Application Details:

Determine if you qualify as a visiting student or an exchange student:

Visiting Student: You are earning your bachelor's degree from a university or college outside of the United States and want to study at UNL for one or two semesters.

Exchange Student: You are a student from a university that has a reciprocal exchange agreement with UNL. You must be nominated by your home study abroad coordinator and your home coordinator must submit your application.

Admission Application Form: Please type or print. The form must be signed by the student, and if you are an exchange student, program coordinator at the student's home institution. For exchange students, the coordinator's recommendation will determine the student's placement at the graduate or undergraduate level.

Academic Documents: Original or certified (attested) copies in English of post-secondary diplomas earned and course work completed must be submitted before course enrollment.

Proof of English proficiency: All non-native English speakers are required to demonstrate English proficiency prior to admission. Applicants who are native speakers of English in a country in which English is the exclusive official language are exempt from this requirement. English language proficiency is satisfied by an official score on the Test of English as a Second Language (TOEFL). A minimum TOEFL of 523 (paper) or 70 (Internet with 20 writing subscore) is required for undergraduate exchange students. A 550 (paper) or 79 (internet) is the minimum TOEFL score required for graduate exchange students with some departments requiring higher scores. University of Nebraska-Lincoln TOEFL code = 6877. Alternate proof of English proficiency: IELTS 6.0 composite (5.5 writing subscore), ACT English subscore 20, SAT Critical Reading subscore 470, graduation from a US high school. All scores are valid for two years. If your scores are more than two years old, you will need to provide updated scores.

Financial Support Documentation: Applicants must indicate the ability to be supported for the entire period of intended study at UNL without recourse to employment. (Please see the notes for estimating expenses on the second page of this document.) The bank certification (Section A) and/or the statement of government, institution, or organizational support (Section B) must be officially signed and submitted before the necessary visa document can be issued.

Passport: To ensure proper processing of immigration documents, we request all applicants to submit a copy of their passport information page.

Proposed Plan of Study Form: Enter your course requests in order of priority—at least 4 or 5 per semester. Provide several alternative courses. Use the Bulletin (Undergraduate or Graduate) to find course descriptions. The current Schedule of Classes will be available to you after you have been officially admitted to UNL via your MyRed account.

Exchange students only: If you are a student from a university that has a reciprocal exchange agreement with UNL, you must submit your application with the international or exchange office at your home university. Visiting students may submit applications directly to the Office of Admissions.

Visa Information:

If you are accepted as an exchange student, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UNL) will issue Form DS-2019, a Certificate of Eligibility for the Exchange Visitor Visa (J-1). As a J-1 visa holder you are obligated to pursue a full-time academic program at UNL. A minimum full-time academic program, which students must maintain for immigration regulations, is considered to be 12-15 undergraduate hours or 9-12 graduate hours.

Estimating Expenses for the Financial Support Documentation Form:

Each applicant should estimate expenses according to the terms of the particular exchange arrangement and for the appropriate period of time (one or two semesters) using the chart below. Exchange students, please consult with your home institution exchange program coordinator for the benefits covered by your exchange program. You must show the ability to provide the additional costs not covered by the exchange program.

Since you will have documented your financial ability to study and live at UNL, only part-time employment on-campus may be permitted with special permission.

Tuition and fees:

Visiting students are required to pay the non-resident rate for tuition and fees.

Exchange students, except in a few special circumstances, receive tuition and fees benefits for up to 15 undergraduate or 12 graduate credit hours per semester. Tuition for credit hours in addition to these must be paid for by the exchange student at the non-resident tuition rate. Special fees charged only to students in particular programs or classes are not included in the exchange program and are the responsibility of the exchange student. For example, all students enrolled in the Law College must pay the Law Library fee and all students enrolled in engineering courses pay an engineering fee and architecture students pay an architecture fee. Other special fees not covered by exchange benefits are listed in the "Schedule of Classes" which are followed by the notation "Special Fee" and the dollar amount.

Room and Board: The estimates listed are based on double-occupancy in Selleck residence hall and include meals 7 days per week. If you choose another residence hall, please note that the costs may be different than those listed here. Single rooms are assigned on a space-available basis. The additional cost of a single room (approximately $600) is not covered by exchange benefits. Selleck, Pound, Knoll, and Fedde Halls are open during UNL Breaks (closedown) periods, but no food is served. Interim university housing during the orientation period is approximately $22 per night/double room, not including food. (Interim housing during orientation and UNL Break periods is covered in the exchange benefits in exchange programs in which room and board are included.) <http://housing.unl.edu/>

Health and Accident Insurance: Health-related costs in the United States are very high. These expenses may be lessened if optional medical, dental, and optical work is completed before leaving home. The U.S. government requires that international students have adequate health and accident insurance. Visiting and exchange students will automatically be enrolled in and billed for the insurance plan provided by the UNL Health Center. UNL requires ALL international students to have health insurance that is comparable to the UNL student insurance. Refer to the UNL website for more information about those requirements: <http://health.unl.edu/billing/healthyoption>. If a student is covered by a private insurance company, an insurance waiver must be signed within the first two weeks of each semester of attendance.

All UNL students are required to document measles (Rubela) immunization. International students must complete a Tuberculosis test AFTER arrival at UNL. Upon acceptance, further information will be provided.

Books and supplies: Amounts listed are estimates and will vary.

Miscellaneous: The estimate includes local travel, toiletries, some recreation, vacation meals, and incidentals. The amount listed should be considered a minimum. Individual spending habits will greatly influence this figure.

Figuring Estimated Costs for 2013-2014: [Note: These costs are approximate, and are based on 2012-2013 figures. Final rates for tuition, fees, and insurance are not set until July 1 and may be slightly higher.] Exchange students, please contact your exchange coordinator for more complete information regarding the terms of your institution's exchange agreement with UNL.
